I don't remember a time when I didn't do art of one kind or another. It is intrinsic to me.

Much of my work has been commercial and it wasn't until I came to Canada that I felt compelled to draw and paint the landscape. I am intrigued by the wilderness quality and the solitude that is available in this country if you want it. Even farms look isolated.

There are places very close to the city that feel like you could be the first person to have ever walked that particular square foot of ground. Brings the hair up on the back of my neck.
