ArtBeat-light

This month has been super busy for your executive team. So much so we haven't had time to put together our usual informative newsletter. However, you have received the usual WCAS email Bulletins. There have been many this month. The most recent one is one I want to draw your attention to since a member of the WCAS is involved. That is the City of Ottawa public spaces art. Gerry Lavery and Nancy Green have successfully been short listed for this project. I encourage you to attend the public viewing of the submitted projects at the Kinburn Client Centre from 5-8 on Monday March 26th.

Regular Meeting

Wednesday, March 21, 7:30 pm,
St. Paul's United Church, Carp
(park in the back, go in the back door, and follow the voices)

Liane Thiry-Smith is a fibre artist and teacher who uses a variety of techniques and materials to explore her art. She has created art dolls, quilts and felted projects, and has taught a number of workshops and classes around the Ottawa area. She will be sharing her personal journey with us, as well as introducing us to the world of Artist Trading Cards (ATCs) and helping us create our own ATCs.

Bring your scissors and anything that could be used for collaging that you would like to use or share. Liane will be bringing an assortment of supplies to play with as well. See you there
